We invite you to save the date for Wednesday, October 20 from 2:15-4 p.m. in Kendall Hall for a conversation with TCNJ alums Keith and Kenny Lucas — The Lucas Brothers — moderated by Piper Kendrix Williams and Christopher Fisher.

The Lucas Brothers, who graduated from TCNJ in 2007 with philosophy degrees, co-wrote the original screenplay for the Oscar-nominated film “Judas and the Black Messiah.” Their idea for Judas — which honors the life of Fred Hampton, the chairman of the Illinois Black Panther Party who was assassinated by police in 1969 — was first sparked when they learned about Hampton in a TCNJ African American Studies class.

The Wednesday prior, October 13, we will host a screening of “Judas and the Black Messiah” at 6 p.m. in the Brower Student Center.

The events are free to the campus community, but registration is required.
